FOREWORD

Russian roads are everything you have heard about them and more. Locals were not surprised when an American cyclist on a mission to cross Siberia got stuck in the mid - dle of Russia's twelve time zones with a busted wheel rim. Because Russian bicycle wheels are bigger than American ones, the dude was going to be parked in the middle of nowhere for weeks waiting for a replacement from California. "Don't sweat!" said a local handy - man puffing on an evil Kazbek fil - terless cigarette. He pulled the spokes out of a Russian rim, cut it and removed a segment. Then he reshaped and welded it. American spokes went back in, and the foreign adventurer was back on the road!

Russians have always made do with simple solutions without compromis - ing the results. NASA aerospace types say that while America sends men to the moon in a Cadillac, Russia manages to launch them into space in a tin can. Enter the tin can approach to designing a world class body—in your basement with $150 worth of equipment. After all, US gyms are stuffed with hi-tech gear, yet it is the Russians with their metal junkyard training facilities who have dominated the Olympics for decades.

Americans are known for thinking outside the box and in the days when there were no supplements and AbRollers to pedal, they came up with effec - tive strength training methods. Follow the advice of Earle Liederman from his Secrets of Strength published in 1925 and quoted frequently in my book, and you will get results superior to anything you can expect from most of the weight training books on the today's market. Why? –Because if you knew how to train correctly, you would get immediate, satisfying results and would not spend a small fortune on shady supplements and equipment as functional as the looks of a '57 Chevy.
